Window Blinds

Dear Mr. Whittaker,

The purpose of this letter is to clarify and amend our bid on this project.

We have quoted this requirement to the Division of Natural Resources on 2 previous occasions, both time advising them that the cellular shades which are specified for this project are not the ideal product for this application.

According to our research, there are only two manufacturers of cellular shades which offer cordless cellular shades: the Graber Co., a division of Springs Industries does not offer a fabric which is rated as fire resistant. Please see the copy of their letter to me confirming this statement. The other manufacturer of these shades is Hunter Douglas Inc. who offer shades rated as fire resistant in only one size cell, $\frac{3}{4}$ " , and only in 8 colors. There fore, to meet the specifications stated in this requisition the only product available is Hunter Douglas Series D16 Commercial Cellular Shade with $\frac{3}{4}$ " cells in choice of 8 colors.

Hunter Douglas does not offer a side channel as an option for their cellular shades. Therefore, they are not included in our bid.

Also the bottom rail on these Hunter Douglas shades will not raise and lower without hitting the door handles as the door handles are now installed. The bottom rail on any Hunter Douglas cordless cellular shade is $1 \frac{7}{8}$ " wide regardless of the cell size. There is also a space required between the mounting surface and the back of the head rail of approximately $\frac{1}{2}$ ". This means a total space of $2 \frac{3}{8}$ " is the absolute minimum needed for the shade bottom rail to pass through without hitting the door handles. On my visit to the job site, I measured the space between the door handle and the aluminum part of the door to be $1 \frac{7}{8}$ ". There is $2 \frac{3}{4}$ " of space to the door glass, but the structure of the shade bracket will not allow it to be installed flush against the glass as there is not suitable place to attach the bracket without breaking the glass or damaging the door. In addition, if the shade is installed in this glass recess, it will not be very private or room darkening.

Mr. Frank Whittaker/Division of Natural Resources
Bid 08/25/10 Twin Falls State Park
August 24, 2010

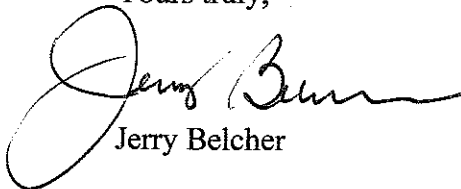

According to our research, there is a product available which will allow these door handles to be projected out 1 ½" which would allow the bottom rail to pass behind the door handles. We have not included the costs of these parts in our bid as it may appear to make us uncompetitive with other bidders. However, we do feel that it is important and necessary that these extensions be installed. These blinds are being installed in hotel rooms where the people using them will be of all ages, temperance and mental abilities and most likely will not take the time to gently maneuver the blind around the door handle.

Also please note that in the Chaquinpin Conference room there is only 2" off recess between the large wooden beams in front of these windows and the glass. The bottom rails on the cord operated blinds are also 1 7/8" wide, therefore the blinds may hit these wooden beams. These beams may also need to be projected out, but we have not included any cost provision in our bid for this alteration.

Attached is a copy of the standard Hunter Douglas warranty. Shades which need repaired will need to be returned to Hunter Douglas for repair. The Duette Commercial shade installed in a hotel/motel installation have a 1 year warranty period

Thank you for your consideration.

Yours truly,

Jerry Belcher

Hi Jerry!

This is in response to your questions faxed in today.

We do not have fire retardant cellular shade fabrics. We did have a few in the past but they are no longer offered.

You are correct in your assumption, any altering of our products, such as chemically treating them, does void the warranty on the blinds. I do not have any information regarding chemical treatments that would be used to make them fire retardant.

Please feel free to contact me regarding any other information you may need, and have a great day!
