The Telehook Universal Full Motion mount provides a highly articulated solution for attaching a large LED, LCD or Plasma screen to a wall. The highly articulated arm allows for a relatively flush seated screen in any position and pan adjustment. It features Atdec's Smooth Glide mechanism to ensure easy operation with even the heaviest and largest units. The display head allows tilt adjustment and rotation for smooth and comfortable operation. The high quality finish, cable management and hidden mounting points make this product suitable for both home and commercial use.

The TH-3270-UFM ships with an arm unit and mounting plate to the wall along with a bracket which attaches to the display hardware included in the pack. The bracket features Universal mounting holes to suit the widest possible range of screens with either VESA/standard mounting hole patterns (refer specifications below) when the display is lifted, slotted and secured into place with a lock. In situations where the screen is being used as a display device, the product allows display installation in either a landscape or portrait orientation. The product is designed for solid timber or masonry wall structures with all required hardware.

Note: Due to the spring loading on the tilt mechanism the product is most comfortably operated with displays which weigh 0
