Description of Secure Electronic Delivery:Center Point Response:

Center Point transmits WV APTA reports securely via a 128-bit encrypted SSL business-class file transfer servers housed in a secure data center.

The data center features the following computer network security measures:

- Ballistic-proof exterior, including doors & windows
- Fingerprint scanners and ID checking for all entry and exit of the facility
- Double Man Traps force double verification and provides extra secure data center entry
- Redundant off-site monitoring of all security systems
- Locked Cabinets and Cages

The privately managed server farm is equipped with the latest firewalls and computer internet security updates to help keep the data completely safe.

All communications between server and the user are encrypted using the Secure Socket Layer (SSL). This is the same functionality used by banks and popular e-commerce services such as Amazon.com for secure communication.

Computer network security is subject to daily security audits by a third-party security monitoring firm to help stay one step ahead of the latest security threats.

When Center Point initiates a file transfer using the system, only the specified users that are designated by Center Point are able to access the contents of those folders. Users who do not have access rights will not even see files or folders in their view of the system.

A single WVDE user is granted a unique login/password for the express purpose of electronically transmitting APTA report files. All user passwords are hashed in the database, meaning that not even the support personnel have the ability to view or in any way determine a user's password.
