MasterCare BathAire

Heated air flows evenly through 4 jets with 6 ports each totaling 24-air openings to create a gentle, soothing bathing experience. This feature can be activated by the push of a button ensuring that an individual is warm and comfortable while the tub is filling or draining.

Top accessible, self-sealing air valve outlets inhibit contaminated water from entering the internal air system significantly reducing the potential for cross-contamination.

The self-sealing air jets, by design, eliminate water flow in the internal airline system. Each air jet contains two double check valves and the BathAire blower has an automatic purge cycle to ensure a dry jet.

BathAire^(SM) eliminates the extra time/labor, hot water and cleaner/disinfectant needed to sanitize and back flush a whirlpool's plumbing system.

Understanding a whirlpool:

A whirlpool uses the water in the bath to drive the jets to create the whirlpool action in the water. By this design alone, water is continually running through the pump, allowing bacteria from the bather to enter the internal plumbing system. The whirlpool itself cannot be turned on until all jets are covered with water, if it is you can ruin the pump. Nor can a whirlpool system be completely drained. Again, by design, the internal plumbing system allows water to remain in the plumbing lines and pump between baths. This dark damp environment is a perfect environment for the growth of harmful bacteria. Even with their recommended cleaning procedures of back flushing the system between baths, the lines cannot be thoroughly cleaned; no disinfectant on the market today can clean without scrubbing.

Whirlpool allows NO access or possible way to clean the pump or water lines between baths—foreign material is introduced into every bath given.
