A. West Virginia regulations pertaining to abatement of Lead Based Paint do not include renovations in a Hospital. As long as the paint in question is adhered to the substrate of the materials being removed, there are no special requirements pertaining to protection of materials, storage, or disposal other than the standard requirements for construction and demolition debris.

While there are a few isolated locations with paint that is not adhered to the substrate the quantity of that material is estimated to be less than 0.25 pounds. The minimal amount of loosely adhered (peeling) paint should be disposed with the demolition debris.

5. Q. What is stored in the refrigerated units in the Basement?

A. Fresh and frozen food.

6. Q. Do ceilings need to be reinstalled at the end of a construction shift in occupied rooms on First and Basement floors?

A. MSES Consultants contacted a local sales representative for approximate lead time of generator. They estimated a lead time of 134-140 days after receipt of approved submittals for a generator of this size. Construction period of 300 days should be adequate.
