PART 2 OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

2.1 Location: The West Virginia Rehabilitation Center Complex is located along Highway 25 in Institute, WV and is, in general, bounded by an area from West Virginia State University on the east to the Bayer chemical on the west and from Kanawha River on the south to Highway 25 on the north and including buildings and parking areas.

2.2 Background: The West Virginia Rehabilitation Center Complex was originally constructed as a residential training facility for persons with special needs. Most of the buildings on the campus date between the 1960's through the 1990's and were constructed in several phases. When use of the facility as a residential campus was phased out, the State of West Virginia was left with a facility that, although functional, has many spaces that are highly specialized and are not easily adapted to other uses. The intent is to explore options for redesigning this facility into a multi-tenant, multi-use state facility with an emphasis on providing reasonable, cost effective, leased office space. The primary focus of this project will be for buildings located on the southern half of the campus, although recommendations may also be sought for improving the maintenance, utility costs and utilization of other buildings on the northern portion of the campus.

This project is intended to be a multi-phase project. The first phase of this project will include an evaluation of the facility with recommendations on spaces available in individual buildings, the condition of available utilities, options to renovate the spaces, possible future uses for spaces and building system recommendations. Project may include meeting with potential tenant agencies to evaluate existing programs, needs and possible fit into the campus. Later phases of the project may include providing a comprehensive redesign of designated spaces, with construction documents and construction phase services (if applicable).
