PART 2

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

2.1 Location: Agency is located on the Capitol Complex, The Culture Center/Bldg 9, 1900 Kanawha Blvd. E., Charleston, WV.

2.2 Background: The Lower Level of the Culture Center on the Capitol Complex has been experiencing extensive water seepage, during periods of heavy rainfall, at the base of the wall in the North East corner (Between Column line B1 and C1) and at the base of the wall and through building penetrations on the South West corner (Between Column line G7 and D7) of the structure.

The exterior waterproofing system was installed during the building's construction in 1975 and a review of the 1975 specifications indicates a hand applied coating of:

1. Asphalt Concrete Primer
2. Mopped on heavy coat of low temperature melt asphalt; applied hot.
3. 55Lb Asphalt impregnated roll roofing that was lapped 4 inches and sealed at each joint.
4. Mopped on heavy coat of low temperature melt asphalt; applied hot.

In doing initial research of the system it was found that it was a commonly used system for water proofing used during this period. However, there are drawbacks to this waterproofing system. Among them:

1. The surface must be carefully prepped prior to applying the system. Failure to do this will cause the system to delaminate from the concrete allowing water to get in between the wall and the asphalt system.

2. These systems can dry out over time and become brittle, Thermal expansion and contraction of concrete building materials or soil related shifting can cause cracking; allowing water to infiltrate into the building.

In September of 2007 a section of the East Exterior wall between column line A4 and A6 was excavated to repair a 6 inch diameter hole in the foundation and to repair cracked drain tile. In the process of excavation it was discovered that the waterproofing system was marginal, possibly due to construction activity or deterioration or both. This was remediated, in the area of work, by a complete removal of the 1975 system and the application of a spray on membrane applied hot. During the 2007 work, it was also observed that there was no apparent foundation drainage system installed in 1975. In review of the 1975 construction blueprints and specifications there is no indication of such a system as well.

Observations:

1. In general there have been quality assurance issues during the 1975 construction. This conclusion has been reached following examination of building systems when problems have been reported. In the 1990's the plaza deck was completely replaced due to poor waterproofing detailing around existing built in planters causing leaking in the Lower Level ceiling. It is my understanding that these same subs were used to install the water proofing of the Lower Level walls. During other projects at the Culture Center I had the opportunity to interview Contractor tradesmen who were journeymen and apprentices at the time and were on site during the 1975 construction. They describe many quality assurance issues regarding materials and execution of work.
2. There has been some soil settlement around the perimeter of the building. This directly exposes some of the upper edges of the waterproofing system to sun and temperature differentials which may cause deterioration and cracking of the asphalt and possible delaminating of areas of the concrete wall.
3. At the intersection between the bottom of the wall and the footer there is a 3 inch ledge. At this point, the applied membrane must undergo a 90° change in direction to cover the footer ledge, and then rotates down 90° to cover the footer. These types of corners are susceptible to cracking over time due to creasing; creating weak spots.
4. Since there are apparently no installed foundation drains there is no means of removing water from the foundation during high water table periods.

5. Fluorescent dye tablets were placed in nearby surface and plaza drains near the areas of leakage during heavy rain events with no apparent result. This may not necessarily mean that there is not a potential issue with nearby drain lines but describes in-house efforts to trace the issue.

PART 3                    PROCUREMENT SPECIFICATIONS

3.1    General Requirements:

1. Based on the above information and observations investigate the issue.
2. Determine the best means of approach to remediate the issue. This may include the following:
  - a. Do a complete replacement of the waterproofing system on the South, East, and North walls. This may include repairs to drains, penetrations, and/or the installation of foundation drainage fields if it is determined that they are required to remediate the issue.
  - b. Do a selective repair only of the 1. Facades or 2. Immediate Areas that are actually reported as leaking. This may include repairs to drains, penetrations, and/or the installation of foundation drainage fields if it is determined that they are required to remediate the issue.
3. Provide a Construction cost estimate and justification for the best means of approach.
4. Develop biddable plans and specifications for construction.
5. Provide Construction Administration and Quality Assurance services for construction.
6. Closeout the Project.

3.2    Project Description:

3.2.1 The Lower Level of the Culture Center on the Capitol Complex has been experiencing extensive water seepage, during periods of heavy rainfall, at the base of the wall in the North East corner (Between Column line B1 and C1) and at the base of the wall and through building penetrations on the South West corner (Between Column line G7 and D7) of the structure.

The Architect is to provide Investigation, Design, Quality Assurance, and Construction Management Services to address issues with the exterior waterproofing system for the Lower Level of the Culture Center
