Vendor Questions, Answers

Question 1:

A local vendor may have access to partner with a Gartner tier leader or challenger for hosting. The local vendor would subcontract the hosting, while providing Level 1 support. Does that cause any problems for this RFQ?

Answer 1:

Commerce does not have an issue with companies subcontracting the hosting – as long as the hosting service is a Gartner tier leader or challenger meeting or exceeding our specifications. Commerce's main objective is that our staff/contractors have direct password access to our code to make updates at all times without having to pay or go through the local vendor each time. Commerce has a freelance developer in house and a separate systems integration contractor to re-establish our application in the new environment, once the equipment is set up by the winning hosting vendor. Commerce must be recognized as an authorized user by the hosting facility. All payments for products and services will be made to the successful vendor.

Question 2:

There is a request to partition off one of the two machines using VM Ware. Why not price three machines instead of partitioning the second one?

Answer 2:

We do not desire to add a third machine. Please bid products and services as specified.

Question 3:

The specs request a 2 TerraByte RAID hard drive for both servers. Running RAID on that size drive may slow the system down. We recommend staying with 450 Gb RAID (6 drives). OK?

Answer 3:

See the following RAID configuration changes.

Web Server RAID Specifications are changed as follows:

From: 2 TB HDD in RAID 5
To: 500GB HDD in RAID 5

Database Server remains unchanged:

2TB HDD in RAID 5
