Acquire comprehensive research-based hybrid professional development for the teaching of mathematics content to 675 educators in grades 6,7 and 8 including face to face customized sessions and web-based software learning tool to better prepare teachers to implement the next generation content standards and objectives.

Proposed Sole Source Vendor:

Carnegie Learning
Frick Building, 20th Floor
437 Grant Street
Pittsburgh, PA 15219

Specific Eligibility Criteria: Generic needs and required /mandatory features.

- The vendor must have availability and capacity to complete the work with the established timelines of the project to begin November 2012 and conclude by June 2013.
- The vendor must have previous experience in developing, researching, and providing professional development in the teaching of mathematics to middle school teachers.
- The vendor must be a full-service education company with mathematics services that are making a significant impact on instruction in middle schools. It must be validated by at least ten years of academic research, practical classroom experience and have - consistently demonstrated improvement in mathematics scores for all participating student populations.

- The vendor must have previously developed a research-based, web-based learning tool for teachers to use throughout the year to engage in further mathematical problem-solving, reinforce and deepen mathematical knowledge, and reflect on their math understanding and teaching practices. This will enable continued time to work through the mathematical goals of the professional development. The program must be based on the ACT-R theory of knowledge and performance. It must be built on a cognitive model that tracks user actions in order to determine the particular user strategy in solving a problem (model tracing). In addition, each action that the user takes must be associated with one or more discrete skills and their individual performances on these skills must be tracked over time and dynamically displayed real-time for on-going formative assessment and to support the implementation of the new Smarter Balanced Assessment computer adaptive assessment tasks.
  - The vendor must ensure that the content addressed in the professional development is aligned with and meets the expectations of the more rigorous West Virginia Next Generation Mathematics Content Standards and Objectives.
  - The vendor must ensure that the content of the professional development be customized for West Virginia teachers to include specific connections to the specific needs of our teachers and students.

Specific Qualification Criteria:

It is determined that Carnegie Learning, Inc. is the only full-service matching vendor that addresses all of the eligibility and qualifications for this project.

- The vendor is a full-service education company with mathematics curricula and services that are making a significant impact on instruction in schools, validated by years of academic research, practical classroom experience and have consistently demonstrated improvement in mathematics scores for all student populations. For over a decade, the vendor has been dedicated to supporting teacher knowledge and engagement with a professional development approach that aligns teacher and learning using standards-based curriculum and student-centered instruction. In the last five years, the vendor has worked in West Virginia and around the country with an average of 1,000 schools in approximately 400 districts per year. The vendor has delivered services to 1171, 1314, and 1600+ schools respectively in 2008, 2009, and 2010 including implementations comparable to what the vendor proposes for West Virginia instructors. The vendor's professional services are appropriate for teachers of mathematics in grades k-12+.

- The vendor has designed and implemented comprehensive research-based hybrid professional development in the teaching of mathematics to K-12 teachers. Specifically, the vendor's professional development program fully integrates and optimizes a teacher's abilities and the computer's capabilities to create a solution that engages students and teachers in real-world problem solving and building a deep conceptual understanding of mathematics. The vendor is the sole source of Carnegie Learning Professional Development and Cognitive Tutor web-based learning tool.
- The vendor's professional development is designed to increase teacher effectiveness by deepening teachers' understanding of mathematics, providing an environment in which teachers can learn to problem-solve in a student-centered environment, and facilitating teachers' reflection on their own teaching practices. The vendor has developed the theoretical foundation for Content Academies/Custom Professional development applying new research (National Mathematics Advisory Panel, 2008) along with the national Council of teachers of Mathematics (NCTM) new standards for teaching of mathematics. All of the vendor's professional development sessions incorporate key components: 1) grade-appropriate content; 2) pedagogy based on problem-solving; and 3) heightened awareness of teaching as a basis for continuous professional growth. During customized professional development, the vendor focuses on specific content-area goals that are designed to support success in the classroom. The vendor has customized for West Virginia teachers specific connections to WESTEST 2 data and the needs of middle school students. In addition, fostering a "Learning by Doing" environment is one of the hallmarks of Carnegie Learning pedagogy. Teacher's discover, explore, reason, share and reflect as active learners in cohort groups to make connections between math concepts. Participants engage in mathematical problem solving using Cognitive Tutor to reinforce and deepen mathematical knowledge.
- The vendor has developed the research-based, web-based learning tool Cognitive Tutor which is based on the ACT-R theory of knowledge and performance. It is built on a cognitive model that tracks user actions in order to determine the particular user strategy in solving a problem (model tracing). In addition, each action that the user takes is associated with one or more discrete skills and their individual performance on these skills is tracked over time and dynamically displayed real-time for on-going formative assessment. Both the Cognitive Tutor web-based program access and all materials from the professional development session provide the educators with tools to reflect on their own mathematical understanding and teaching practices throughout the year.

- The vendor has experience collecting and analyzing evaluation data to determine the effectiveness of professional development and makes necessary changes to the design and implementation if needed. Two versions of the Content Academies were piloted in Dallas, Texas and Barboursville, West Virginia that indicated a need to develop a prototype for coaching and professional learning communicates and to continue strengthening the teachers' abilities to help students "think on a deeper level".
- The vendor has completed an extensive research project in the field of mathematics within a state of similar southern regional characteristics and demographics by using a third-party developed assessment and evaluation. This research derived from the vendor's work with the Green River Regional Education Cooperative (GRREC), an intermediate unit providing professional development to 33 Kentucky school districts. In the course of the three-year project, more than 220 K-8 teachers participated in one or more week-long Content Academies. Faculty at the University of Louisville formally evaluated the Green River project (Jones and Bush, 2009) examining the Content Academies' effects on teachers' knowledge of, belief about, attitudes toward and teaching of mathematics. Results shows: 1) participants who attended the Content Academies in all three years had a significant increase in both their algebra content knowledge and their positive attitudes towards the teaching of mathematics; 2) for all K-8 teachers, increases in knowledge gained for algebra topic sub-scores were consistent across grade spans; 3) statistical tests of the average difference in knowledge gain scores showed that teachers' learning rather than chance accounted for the differences; and 4) teachers' attitudes towards teaching math also became far more positive following the Content Academies and the improved feelings about teaching math were due to their learning, rather than chance. (Jones & Bush, 2009).
- The vendor aligned the content in the professional development with the expectations of the more rigorous West Virginia Next Generation Mathematics Content Standards and Objectives.
- The vendor has availability and training capacity to complete the work within the established timelines of the project to begin November 2012 and conclude by June 2013.

52. PREFERENCE FOR USE OF DOMESTIC STEEL PRODUCTS: Except when authorized by the Director of the Purchasing Division pursuant to W. Va. Code § 5A-3-56, no contractor may use or supply steel products for a State Contract Project other than those steel products made in the United States. A contractor who uses steel products in violation of this section may be subject to civil penalties pursuant to W. Va. Code § 5A-3-56. As used in this section:

- a. "State Contract Project" means any erection or construction of, or any addition to, alteration of or other improvement to any building or structure, including, but not limited to, roads or highways, or the installation of any heating or cooling or ventilating plants or other equipment, or the supply of and materials for such projects, pursuant to a contract with the State of West Virginia for which bids were solicited on or after June 6, 2001.
- b. "Steel Products" means products rolled, formed, shaped, drawn, extruded, forged, cast, fabricated or otherwise similarly processed, or processed by a combination of two or more or such operations, from steel made by the open heath, basic oxygen, electric furnace, Bessemer or other steel making process.

The Purchasing Division Director may, in writing, authorize the use of foreign steel products if:

- a. The cost for each contract item used does not exceed one tenth of one percent (.1%) of the total contract cost or two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00), whichever is greater. For the purposes of this section, the cost is the value of the steel product as delivered to the project; or

- b. The Director of the Purchasing Division determines that specified steel materials are not produced in the United States in sufficient quantity or otherwise are not reasonably available to meet contract requirements.

53. PREFERENCE FOR USE OF DOMESTIC ALUMINUM, GLASS, AND STEEL: In Accordance with W. Va. Code § 5-19-1 et seq., and W. Va. CSR § 148-10-1 et seq., for every contract or subcontract, subject to the limitations contained herein, for the construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair, improvement or maintenance of public works or for the purchase of any item of machinery or equipment to be used at sites of public works, only domestic aluminum, glass or steel products shall be supplied unless the spending officer determines, in writing, after the receipt of offers or bids, (1) that the cost of domestic aluminum, glass or steel products is unreasonable or inconsistent with the public interest of the State of West Virginia, (2) that domestic aluminum, glass or steel products are not produced in sufficient quantities to meet the contract requirements, or (3) the available domestic aluminum, glass, or steel do not meet the contract specifications. This provision only applies to public works contracts awarded in an amount more than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) or public works contracts that require more than ten thousand pounds of steel products.

The cost of domestic aluminum, glass, or steel products may be unreasonable if the cost is more than twenty percent (20%) of the bid or offered price for foreign made aluminum, glass, or steel products. If the domestic aluminum, glass or steel products to be supplied or produced in a "substantial labor surplus area", as defined by the United States Department of Labor, the cost of domestic aluminum, glass, or steel products may be unreasonable if the cost is more than thirty percent (30%) of the bid or offered price for foreign made aluminum, glass, or steel products.

This preference shall be applied to an item of machinery or equipment, as indicated above, when the item is a single unit of equipment or machinery manufactured primarily of aluminum, glass or steel, is part of a public works contract and has the sole purpose or of being a permanent part of a single public works project. This provision does not apply to equipment or machinery purchased by a spending unit for use by that spending unit and not as part of a single public works project.

All bids and offers including domestic aluminum, glass or steel products that exceed bid or offer prices including foreign aluminum, glass or steel products after application of the preferences provided in this provision may be reduced to a price equal to or lower than the lowest bid or offer price for foreign aluminum, glass or steel products plus the applicable preference. If the reduced bid or offer prices are made in writing and supersede the prior bid or offer prices, all bids or offers, including the reduced bid or offer prices, will be reevaluated in accordance with this rule.
