

Eligible Organizations Have Special Access to Exclusive Deals from WV Surplus

Eligible organizations recently had the opportunity to take advantage of exclusive deals from WV Surplus. One of these deals was free tulip bulbs.

Did you know that registered eligible organizations often have access to special promotions offered by WV Surplus? Whether you are a school board or a first responder, now is a great time to make sure your application is on file with WV Surplus and up-to-date with current information.

“At WV Surplus, we know that eligible organizations work hard serving the state of West Virginia so our staff works hard to connect them with the best deals available,” shared WV Surplus Manager Elizabeth Perdue. “Whether it is early access to deals, free merchandise, or creating a list of interested items, the benefits of being a registered organization are endless!”

WV Surplus Hosts Annual Customer Appreciation Day

In June, WV Surplus held its annual Customer Appreciation Day. The June 6, 2019, Customer Appreciation Day allowed WV Surplus and its staff to recognize returning customers and welcome new customers. With extended hours only on this day, customers were able to socialize with staff over light refreshments.

“Our Customer Appreciation Day gives people a chance to visit our warehouse when their normal schedules do not allow them to otherwise,” said WV Surplus Manager Elizabeth Perdue. “New shoppers can see what WV Surplus has to offer, and our staff is able to say ‘thank you’ to our loyal customers.”

More than 35 individuals attended and shopped for a variety of items including furniture, electronics, and vehicles.

Thank you to all the individuals who attended this event, and WV Surplus hopes to see you at our 2020 celebration!

Don't Let the Summer Heat Keep You From Finding Great Deals and Preparing for the Future

Things are heating up at WV Surplus! While the temperature is increasing outside, so is our inventory. We are unloading new furniture and expect more deliveries throughout the end of summer. Be sure to stop in and see what is new.

One summer tradition for many individuals is back-to-school shopping. Picking the perfect backpack and getting new pens is an important ritual but buying all of those school supplies can really break the bank. Luckily, WV Surplus is here to help!

Whether you need binders for your middle schooler or are shopping for dorm furniture, check out some of these great deals:

- Notebooks - $0.25
- Printer Ink - $5
- Printer Toner - $10
- Laptop Bags - $10
- Bookcases - $20-100
- Mini Fridge - $25
- Tables - $5-40

- And much more!

One summer project that is underway at WV Surplus is the updating of our website: WVSurplus.gov. Don't worry. You'll still be able to quickly find our vehicle list and special sales. But we want to improve our service to our customers by providing more information and ensuring our site is user-friendly for our daily sales customers, state agencies and eligible organizations.

If you have a few minutes to spare, I would appreciate it if you would complete a brief survey regarding our website. This will allow us to learn more about your needs and potential areas for improvement. You can complete the survey by visiting www.surveymonkey.com/r/SurplusWebsiteSurvey\_2019.

Please submit all responses by the close of business on Wednesday, July 24, 2019. Please note that

THE MANAGER'S PERSPECTIVE

ELIGIBLE ORG DEALS

WV Surplus's Eligible Organizations: Generators

In March, WV Surplus offered early access to more than 30 generators at its warehouse in Dunbar. Ranging from 5 kw to 60 kw and priced from $1,000 to $3,000, these generators were a great deal. While these generators were ultimately made available to the public, WV Surplus provided state agencies, non-profit organizations and other eligible organizations to have the first opportunity to purchase.

Tulip Bulbs

In May, WV Surplus offered free tulip bulbs to its registered eligible organizations. Some of the recipients of these tulip bulbs include the City of Philippi, Putnam County Aging, City of Madison, First Presbyterian Church, WV State Independent Living, Department of Environmental Protection's Operation Wildflower, and the WV Veteran's Home.

Fire Responder Vehicle

Police, volunteer fire departments, and other first responders had the opportunity in July to bid on several exclusive GovDeals auctions. Due to the sirens and lights on these vehicles, first responders were the only organizations approved to purchase them.

One of the vehicles available for bid was a 2014 Ford Explorer with 4WD. With only 155,740 miles, and the motor, transmission, battery, brakes, paint, interior, and exhaust all described as being in fair condition, this vehicle could be updated and utilized for many years to come.

Registered eligible organizations often have benefit of exclusive deals from WV Surplus such as early access to inventory, limited sales, and even free items.

To become a registered organization, complete the Application for Eligibility available online at WVSurplus.gov. For questions regarding your organizations status or to make updates to the application you currently have on file, call 304.766.2626.

WV Surplus Joins Purchasing Division in Presenting to Local Governments Around West Virginia

WV Surplus continued to join the Purchasing Division to conduct informational sessions about their services to people around the state. So far in 2019, WV Surplus has visited Beckley and Moorefield with an additional seminar planned for Fairmont in August.

At each seminar, WV Surplus presented on how local governments and eligible organizations can use the services of WV Surplus. During these sessions, attendees also learn how the State Surplus Program can benefit their organizations. Information regarding who is eligible, how to register and additional special benefits were included in the discussion. Attendees were also provided information on how to request and receive assets from the federal government through the Federal Surplus Program.

Evaluations from the Moorefield and Beckley seminars revealed that:

- 100% strongly agreed they better understand the programs and services available to their organizations from WV Surplus.
- Information presented by WV

Surplus was clear and concise.

WV Surplus will join the Purchasing Division at one last presentation of Opportunities for Local Governments for 2019. This seminar is scheduled for August 8, 2019, at Fairmont State University. While these presentations are free, registration is required. For more information, visit <http://wvpurchasing.eventbrite.com>.

WV Surplus would like to thank those who attended the sessions in Beckley and Moorefield.
